Bait & Tackle®, Las Vegas's largest adult motion picture production company, just announced the launch of RealityRevealed.com, a site where several reality TV stars are participating in hardcore videos.

The first of the seven stars which Reality Revealed™ is teasing on the site is a red haired guy who many may find familiar. Stew, with his mohawk, snakebite piercings, and pistol tattoos, isn't bashful about getting naked and doing his thing. His video is online now, with the others debuting shortly, and as opposed to most "celebrity sex tapes," it's shot with lighting and in high definition.

"I admit, I'm as curious as the next guy to see the most recent celebrity sex tape, but more often than not, it's just a blurry mess with terrible lighting. That's nothing like what you'll see on Reality Revealed," says Justin Clouse, owner of Bait & Tackle, whose largest site, StraightCollegeMen.com, has been online since 2001.

"Without naming names, sometimes people vastly oversell then underdeliver. They promise 'hockey sticks' and deliver doughy buns. We would never go for that. Each of the reality TV stars appearing on the site not only gets fully frontal naked, the camera also gets up close to see details... in color," Clouse continued.

Wade Howard, Director of Model Recruitment at Bait & Tackle, describes Reality Revealed as such, "Perhaps you've watched a show and developed a little crush on someone. I think we all have. Reality Revealed aims to let you fulfill at least part of that crush. We've been working with the guy reality stars to start the site, but girls are just around the corner."

For now, if you want to see some reality star "poles," Bait & Tackle's got the hookup at RealityRevealed.com
